- Ensuring high-quality installation work in accordance with technical requirements and customer specifications
- Supervising, coordinating, and supporting installation teams on construction sites
- Monitoring project progress, documenting work, and reporting to project management
- Working hands-on alongside your team whenever required
- Travelling from our Dubai location to customer projects, primarily throughout the Middle East, with occasional assignments worldwide, often for several weeks at a time

Your qualifications:

- Completed vocational training as an insulator or a comparable technical qualification
- Several years of practical experience in technical or industrial insulation installation
- Ideally, experience with insulation systems for turbines, power plants, industrial equipment, or marine applications
- Previous experience in supervising installation teams or coordinating construction sites is an advantage
- Ability to read and understand technical drawings and installation instructions
- Willingness to travel and work on international projects for several weeks at a time, primarily within the Middle East and occasionally worldwide
- fluent English communication skills, both spoken and written; German skills are an advantage
- Independent, reliable, and quality-conscious working style
- Strong hands-on mentality, flexibility, and ability to work in international teams

We offer:

- A full-time position with ARNOLD Group Middle East L.L.C. in Dubai, UAE
- Exciting international installation projects, primarily in the Middle East, with occasional assignments worldwide
- A business visa provided by ARNOLD Group
- Additional housing allowance paid by the company
- A diverse and challenging role with a high level of responsibility
- The opportunity to earn attractive additional compensation through international installation assignments
- Long-term career prospects within a growing, family-owned international company
- Opportunities for professional development and further training
- Short decision-making processes, flat hierarchies, and a supportive team environment
- The opportunity to contribute your experience and ideas while working on technically demanding projects
